

Thank You Card Design Brief

Background:

We have been learning about communication skills. We communicate in many different ways. We have learned that using manners is an important type of communication. We know that we should say “thank you” when someone gives us something or does something for us. We can write a note to thank someone for a special gift or act of kindness.

Design Challenge:

Design and construct a colorful “thank-you” card that tells someone that you appreciate something that they did or something they gave to you.

Criteria: Your card must have:

- ❑ at least 2 different colors.
- ❑ the words “Thank You”.
- ❑ at least one moving part.
- ❑ at least one pop-up part.
- ❑ your name on it to tell who is sending it.

Materials: You may use any of the following items, but you do not have to use all of them.

- Construction paper
- Scrap box
- Glue
- Paper fasteners (no more than 2)

Tools:

- Markers
- Colored pencils
- Crayons
- Scissors
- Eraser with pushpin

Grade 1

Virginia SOL Addressed:

English 1.1, 1.2, 1.3 (Oral Language) • Writing 1.11 (Print Legibly) • 1.12 (Write to Communicate Ideas) • Civics 1.10 (Good Citizenship)

Nora Saunders, 2008

Mi/MD Teacher, Ecoff Elementary School, Chesterfield, Virginia